What are the opportunities you see for mainstreaming DRR, Preparedness, EW/EA, AA in humanitarian programs?

To raise awareness and look for those local partners that can intervene long term.

During design of the programs

Enhancing partnerships, funding, awareness.

Partnership with different stakeholders for anticipatory actions

Collaborative partnerships that bring together cross sectoral representation

Incorporation of DRR initiatives with state-sponsored activities mandated by national laws

Looking at pooled funding & making all these linked for a whole of spectrum approach

Additional funding by working with other (devt) actors

What are the opportunities you see for mainstreaming DRR, Preparedness, EW/EA, AA in humanitarian programs?

in the learning process in the early recovery phase Tap into the HDP nexus would be ideal as its really cross cutting

Integrated approaches with other sectors such as health, livelihood etc

We are planning to look at local fundraising with local philanthropies

Leveraging climate finance

Visualizing the topic and positioning

Community engagement and preparedness

To involve local communities at all stages so that it can be sustainable and based on their needs

What are the opportunities you see for mainstreaming DRR, Preparedness, EW/EA, AA in humanitarian programs?

Enhancing funding

Engaging civil society organizations as much as possible

Partnerships to deepen funding and resource pools (both financial and other forms of resources). Localisation and improving existing localisation modalities. Programming design w/ DRR as a focus

Many local organizations are capable of working in DRR, but unaware of funding opportunities. Maintaining partnerships and connections require time and HR that many organizations don't have

There is an opportunity to understand humanitarianism, development, climate mitigation and adaptation, etc. as more holistic and integral ways of organizing society that will meet all those objectives

Collaborations and community engagement

Strong offer of related training where organization can tap in as needed.

Working with partners on joint development approaches national - international

Unlocking solidarity funds

Local fundraising with local philanthropies

Deepening funding and financing pools.

Collaboration and partnerships

Diversification of funding, drawing in new funding actors facilitating stronger collaboration between different partners Becoming better at sequencing and layering funding and activities rather than going for individual projects

Diaspora engagement.

Partnerships Collaboration Creating Synegies

Secure local funding

Redesigning of programs

Empower communities

Parametric insurance pilots

Business fundings options

Stronger Private sector engagement

Expanding to create strong alliances

Incorporate Climate Change into all of us operations. Work together with de academy sector

We visit communities to discuss DRRM in the context of the communities' unique characteristics

Coalition and partnerships

Allocation of humanitarian pool finance allocated response to finance Anticipatory Action enhance internal communications, since there are opportunities for combining efforts to access funding.

Helping the Countries design the NDC, NAPs

Widening scope of a programme to be holistic

Making the link between available support across organizations and from community - asset building which in term is attractive to donors

Sourcing from CSR

collaboration and partnership

Not recruiting more staff, trying to reduce other costs, e.g. avoiding flying, reducing staff facilities, etc.

Trying to find alternative resources.

working with the National Government don't compete with them

More coordination among Humanitarian partners

More localisation of aid, that would bring more capacity to the national structures

Diversification of funding, drawing in new funding actors

Local fundraising with local philanthropies

Diaspora engagement

Initially - trying to make sense of what it all means before jumping too quickly to reframing strategy